Personal Statement:

I played baseball from age 5 to 11. I then transitioned from baseball to softball and was able to excel. Now everyday my goal is to become better regarding my academics, athletics, and as a person. Reminding myself of these, help me maintain a clear path of priorities to reach my goals. I'm learning new things every day and will always be optimistic of the things I can achieve. I understand that what I put in, I get out and even sometimes I'll receive nothing at all. I have been doing what I can on my own during this 2019 Pandemic. It's been challenging.

My efforts and attitude express who I am, and my goals are the trajectory of where I want my life to lead me. But softball is a game of failure and regardless of how situations play out, I can only control myself and take it pitch by pitch. One of my goals is to play college softball. I know I can't play the game forever, so I want to make the best of what I have now.
